What Is Dual-Credit?

High school students earn both high school and college credits for the same course. Generally, this means a college credit course taught by a college instructor with the involvement of a secondary school teacher and successfully completed by a high school student enrolled. The credits earned count as credit toward completion of a student's high school diploma and post-secondary credits that are recorded on their post-secondary transcript. Participating in dual-credit enables a student to make substantial progress toward their college program before finishing high school.

What are the benefits of taking Dual-Credit courses?

Innovative. Helps students complete their high school requirements while making a successful transition to college and getting a head start on learning and training for their future career.

Convenience. Taught at the college, the high school campus or online depending on the arrangements made with the high school. Students are not always expected to commute to campus.

Student Success. Increases awareness of the various college pathways. Students acquire the greater insight and confidence to succeed academically and personally in college.
